BA (International Studies)

This is a three-year, interdisciplinary programme that is focused on developing a broad insight for the complexity of international matters. The programme focuses on the interaction of economic considerations, cultural and identity matters, the importance of historical context as well as the learning of a modern foreign language. This is done by means of a focused selection of modules and subjects that work together to support the programme-specific major subject Political Science. The programme consists of six subjects in the first year, six subjects in the second year (with French or German) or five subjects (with Chinese), and two major subjects (with elective modules of 24 credits) in the third year. The programme leads to postgraduate study in Political Science, History or other fields of study but is subject to postgraduate programme-specific requirements.

What questions do we ask in Political Science

- What is the interaction between politics and economics?
- Why is there continuing conflict in Africa?
- How do we analyse political and voting behaviour?
- Why do states go to war?
- How do we manage global problems like climate change?
- What are the implications of South Africa's Government of National Unity for policy formulation?

Why study Political Science?

Politics influence all spheres of life. Regardless of whether you see yourself working in business, tourism, journalism, or elsewhere in South Africa or internationally, understanding the role that politics play in our world is essential

What can I do with Political Science?

- Managers in the private and public sector
- Diplomats
- Lawyers
- Political analysts
- Organisers in non-governmental organisations
- Aid workers
- Officials of international organisations such as the UN
- Managers of political campaigns
- Researchers
- Journalists
- Negotiators / Conflict mediators
- Political advisors
- Consultants

BA (Internasionale Studie)

Dit is 'n driejarige, interdissiplinêre program wat daarop gerig is om 'n omvattende begrip vir die kompleksiteit van internasionale vraagstukke by jou te ontwikkel. Deur middel van 'n doelmatige seleksie van modules en vakke wat saamwerk om die programspesifieke hoofvak Politieke Wetenskap te ondersteun, word daar gefokus op die interaksie met ekonomiese oorwegings, kultuur en identiteitskwesties, die belang van historiese konteks asook die aanleer van 'n moderne vreemde taal. Die program bestaan uit ses vakke in die eerste jaar, ses vakke in die tweede jaar (met Frans of Duits) of vyf vakke (met Chinees) en twee hoofvakke (met 24-krediet-keusemodules) in die derde jaar. Die program lei onder ander tot nagraadse studie in Politieke Wetenskap, Geskiedenis of ander rigtings, maar is onderhewig aan nagraadse programspesifieke vereistes.
